Report of "Special Lecture for Pre Ph.D. Course: Tools and Methods of Data Collection" organized by Department of Psychology

In a concerted effort to enhance the research capabilities of Ph.D. scholars, a series of workshop on "Tools and Methods of Data Collection" was organized by the Department of Psychology, PPN PG College. This enlightening workshop series, spanning three sessions on February 19, 24, and 26, 2022, aimed to provide valuable insights into various tools and methodologies crucial for effective data collection. The distinguished speaker for the workshop series was Prof. Girishwar Misra, eminent Scholar and former Vice-Chancellor.

The workshop commenced with an insightful opening address from Dr. Abha Singh, the coordinator. Dr. Singh emphasized the transformative impact of adept data collection in academic research and welcomed the esteemed speaker, Prof. Girishwar Misra, to share his wealth of knowledge with the Ph.D. scholars.

Prof. Girishwar Misra, drawing upon his extensive experience, led the first session by laying the foundations of data collection methodologies. He provided an overview of the evolution of data collection in research, reflecting on the importance of aligning methods with research objectives. Dr. Mishra's insights set the stage for an exploration of both traditional and contemporary approaches.

In the second session, Prof Misra delved into an in-depth exploration of various research methodologies. He elucidated the nuances of qualitative and quantitative methods, offering scholars a comprehensive understanding of when and how to employ different approaches based on the nature of their research questions.

The workshop concluded with a session focused on the practical applications of the discussed methodologies. Prof. Girishwar Misra presented case studies, illustrating the effective use of data collection tools and methodologies in real-world research scenarios. This practical session aimed to empower scholars with actionable insights for their own research endeavors.

The "Tools and Methods of Data Collection" special workshop, enriched by the wisdom of Prof. Girishwar Misra, proved to be a cornerstone for Ph.D. scholars embarking on their research journey. The coordinated efforts of Dr. Abha Singh and Dr. Krishna Kumar provided scholars with a holistic understanding of data collection tools and methodologies. The workshop is attended by over 75 PhD students and many faculty members of the University.
